ILLNESS OF L. C. BRAND.

Mr. L. C. Brand is at present in the California hospital where an operation was performed on him a few days ago. The operation is reported to have given the patient much relief, although not as successful as it was hoped to be. Mr. Brand has been in poor health for a considerable time, but deferred hospital treatment as long as possible. The NEWS hopes to be able to report in the next issue, his rapid convalescence.

CITY TRUSTEES

All members present. A short list of demands on the treasury was read and referred. The city attorney reported in reference to the liability of the city for the spraying of trees on parkways and sidewalks, to the effect that the liability for the work is upon the owners of adjacent property, except in cases where the city is the owner of the property in fee simple. The city attorney also reported that he had examined the escrow instructions given by Mrs. Nellie B. Hammond to the Title Insurance and Trust Company in regard to lots on Fifth street proposed to be conveyed to the city under certain conditions for library site, for the sum of $4,000. The purport of the opinion is to the effect that there being no consideration mentioned, and as the paper is not signed by any representative of the city, the said paper does not constitute an option that is legally binding on Mrs. Hammond. A report of the special night watchman was received and referred to the police and sanitary committee. The matter of regulating the speed of automobiles and motorcycles was referred to the city attorney. The manager of the electric light plant reported having insured the tools and supplies of the department for the sum of $500, and was authorized to insure the equipment for $800. The city engineer made report on bids for construction of sidewalk on Seventh street, recommending that the contract be awarded to F. R. Sinclair; report placed on file. Report of tax collector referred back for additional information. A request was received from F. H. Guernsey for a permit to place seats with advertising thereon at certain specified points; granted, subject to the pleasure of the board under restrictions.

On request of F. R. Sinclair, Permit No. 46 for street work by private contract was revoked, and check to cover fees ordered returned. A resolution was adopted awarding contract to F. R. Sinclair for sidewalk on Seventh street.

The matter of obtaining an option from Mrs. Hammond for property on Fifth street for library purposes was referred to Trustee Lane.

The clerk was instructed to return to the county horticultural commission a bill for spraying trees at Fifth and Glendale, on the ground that no notice of intention had been served.

The city attorney and president of the Board were instructed to prepare a resolution endorsing the proposed Second street tunnel in Los Angeles.

A MERRY PICNIC.

The birthday of the great George was never more joyously celebrated than by a merry party from our town who gathered at Griffith Park on Wednesday last at the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Whitaker of Lomita avenue. The day was perfect, and after a sumptuous lunch most of the young people climbed the "Bee Rock" and enjoyed the view of one of the most magnificent panoramas in Southern California. After the picnic the party adjourned to the hospitable home of the host and hostess, where a dainty supper was cleverly arranged for all, the place cards appropriately consisting of little red hatchets with silver tips. The guests were Rev. R. O. and Mrs. Mackintosh, Mr. and Miss Fitz Jarrell, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Whitaker and Miss Whitaker, all of Glendale; Mr. and Mrs. Batty, Mr. and Miss Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hunt, from Los Angeles; Mrs. Ringwood, of Alameda, on a visit to Mrs. R. E. Whitaker, and Miss E. C. Attrill, of St. Joseph, Mo., who recently arrived on a long visit to her sister, Mrs. Robert O. Macintosh.

Investment

ARRESTED FOR BURGLARY.

A "commercial traveler," giving his name as John McAllister, was arrested Tuesday night at about 10 o'clock by Constable Catlin after entering and trying to rob the home of Fred Ish, manager of the West Glendale store. Shortly after retiring for the night Mr. Ish thought he heard some one strike a match in an adjoining room. He remained perfectly silent and presently the sound was repeated, whereupon Mr. Ish started an investigation, armed with a revolver. Upon locating the noise he also unearthed the noisemaker. McAllister had entered through a window and at once proceeded to find the hiding place of the valuables. Many burned matches on the floor showed that the would-be thief had been at the match-striking business for some time.

When Mr. Ish saw the fellow standing in the center of the room he immediately covered him with his revolver and the fellow put up his hands. The miscreant's hands were still waving aloft when Constable Catlin arrived, having been called over the phone. McAllister was taken before Justice Melrose Wednesday morning at his court in Burbank and as it was a legal holiday he was taken by Catlin to Los Angeles. He was arraigned Thursday morning.

INVITATION TO A MUSICAL TREAT

After many years' wrestling with a veritable old box of whistles, Saint Paul's Pro-Cathedral is in the enjoyment of a brand-new organ, which is to have an official opening next Monday evening, on which occasion the Los Angeles Choral Society of about eighty members will sing Mendelssohn's beautiful "Hymn of Paradise" and "Awake, My Heart," by C. Villiers Stanford, under the able leadership of Mr. Ernest Douglas. Mr. P. Shaul Hallet, organist of All Saints, Pasadena, will preside at the new organ, and Mr. Frank M. Strobridge will add efficient support at the piano. Everyone is cordially invited. Tickets admitting to reserved seats may be obtained by application to the NEWS office, but no seats will be reserved later than 7:45 p. m., when the general public will be admitted.

We learn that Tropico is soon to have a newspaper. Come in, Brother Melrose, the water is warm and getting deeper!

THE COMING BOND ELECTION

A Get-together Meeting Brings Results—A Straw Vote on Two Propositions—The Situation

As advertised in the NEWS for the past two weeks, an election is to be held in Glendale on March 17 next to decide whether the city shall authorize a bond issue in the sum of $18,000 for the purpose of purchasing property for a city hall. Until last Saturday evening it was generally understood that the property to be purchased if the bond issue should be approved, would be a lot on the corner of Howard and Fourth street for the city hall, and four lots on the corner of Fifth and Kenwood, upon which to erect a library. This proposition, however, was not officially decided on; it was merely the choice of certain citizens, and the trustees had shown a disposition to let it go at that as long as nothing more generally satisfactory seemed to offer. Last Saturday evening a meeting of about twenty property owners representing both sides of town, was held at the residence of City Attorney Muhleman and a serious effort was made to reconcile conflicting interests. The meeting was as fairly a representative one as could well be selected, there being about an equal number who strongly favored the Fourth and Howard street and the Fifth Street proposition, while opposed to them were the representatives of citizens who had made up their minds to vote against a bond issue for the purpose of purchasing and building as above set forth. Mr. Wilmot Parcher was made chairman and Mr. G. B. Woodberry secretary of the meeting and every individual present was called upon to express himself unreservedly. This they did and the expressions from both sides were plain and to the point, showing at first an apparently irreconcilable difference of opinion. During the discussion a letter was read from Mr. Anthony Ambrosini who owns property on the corner of Fourth and Jackson streets, advocating the selection of lots on the northwest corner of those streets and promising to make certain valuable improvements on his own property if the city should build on the lots across Fourth street. The reading of this letter seemed to open up a way by which an agreement apparently satisfactory to all was finally arrived at. This was as follows, and was agreed to (informally, of course) by the four members of the board of trustees who were present. (Mr. Coker absent.)

"Resolved and unanimously adopted, That at the time the vote is taken on the issuance of these bonds that a booth be placed there for the expression of each voter as to which he prefers, a library site to be located at Fifth and Kenwood or Fifth and Louise street at the price of the lots stated, and a city hall at Howard and Fourth streets; or a combined site, library and city hall, at Fourth and Jackson."

There was a natural difference of opinion among members present, but in the end it seemed to be agreed to with practical unanimity that the proposition to give the voters a choice of sites was perfectly fair and it was the general feeling that an important step had been taken toward final harmonious action.

The Sites.

The Fourth and Howard street lots have a frontage on Fourth street of 93 feet, on Howard street 142 feet. The width in the rear (North) is 139 feet and the depth along the alley on the west side is 135 feet. There is a bend in Howard street toward the west which makes the difference in depth between the east and west sides. Price $6677.50.

The three lots on the corner of Fifth and Kenwood streets proposed for library site, have an approximate frontage of 150 feet on each street. Price $4000.00.

The first price was $3500, and there is a disposition on the part of the trustees to attempt to get other equally desirable property in the same neighborhood.

As stated above these constitute the first proposition. The Fourth and Jackson property which is the alternative, consists of a frontage of 150 feet on Fourth street with a depth of 185 feet, which includes a twenty-foot strip along the rear of the three 165 foot lots, there being an alley on the west side. Price $9100.

As the NEWS has gauged the situation it seems to be as follows: The supporters of the first proposition have a vigorous organization and believe that they could have carried the bond election. This, however, seems doubtful from the fact that although no organized opposition had developed, there are a large number of voters who would have opposed it on the ground of location and on general principles, while there are many voters practically indifferent. This latter class would have made it very doubtful about getting any two-thirds vote in favor of bonds. As it now is the bonds will receive support from many voters who opposed the Howard street proposition and are willing to abide by the straw vote. The supporters of the Howard street lot for a city hall depended considerably on the fact that it was linked with the proposed library site on Fifth street, calculating that the desire of the people on the west side of town for a library would be sufficient incentive to the voters in that section to induce them to swallow the two combined sites. In this connection it may be remarked that the majority of the voters look upon the site of the library with comparative indifference and there is no apparent anxiety about that matter that would neutralize any inference which the most of the voters have as to the proper place or the present necessity for a city hall.

Before we go to press again a different aspect may be put upon this exceedingly lively question but the above is the situation up to date. St. Patrick's day, however, is three weeks distant!

The following is the letter of Mr. Ambrosini referred to above:

Glendale, Cal., Feb. 17, 1911.

To Whom it May Concern:

In order that there may be no misunderstanding as to my offers to the city of Glendale regarding lot 21, block 8, of Glendale, I repeat my offers formerly made.

I agree to deliver lot 21 block 8 to the city for $2800, and further agree to give $200 to the city if the site offered by Mr. Godfrey on the northwest corner of Fourth and Jackson streets is selected.

If the city buys my lot, also Mr. Godfrey's site, I agree to give the city $500.

Lot 8 block 21 already has some improvements on it, consisting of a 4-foot brick cess pool 16 feet long, water meter and water and sewer pipe, all of which have been put in by the Overton Realty Co. and are to be left in the ground when their lease expires.

And I agree furthermose as soon as possible, provided the city locates the city hall on the northwest corner of Fourth and Jackson streets to put up a substantial building on one and probably on both of the corners opposite.

I have great faith in Glendale and am willing to risk my money in building up the city if we can harmonize and work together.

Yours very truly,
ANTHONY AMBROSINI.

MAIDS AND MATRONS.

Mrs. R. A. Petersen of Adams street was a delightful hostess for the Third Monday meeting of the Maids and Matrons held this week in the Country Club.

In honor of Washington's Birthday the club parlors were prettily decorated with flags and patriotic emblems. Part of the afternoon was devoted to a musical which was most thoroughly enjoyed, after which refreshments were served a la cafeteria, a clever diversion from the regular method.

Guests of the afternoon were Mrs. J. Hare, Mrs. Thurman Denver, Mrs. Estelle Filger, Mrs. P. S. McNutt, Mrs. Robinson, Miss Batcheller, Mrs. Shephard, Mrs. L. J. Hodge, Mrs. Alin and Miss Jessie Moore.

On March 6 Mrs. Daniel Campbell will entertain the members of the Maids and Matrons and their guests at a luncheon followed by a five hundred party in the parlors of the Glendale Country Club.

Our good friend, Dave Carney remembered us with a copy of the Mid-Winter Special edition of the GLENDALE NEWS. It is a boomer edition and a credit not only to the thriving little city, but to the publisher of the paper. We note an ad in the edition for the celebrated, world renowned, long-wearing and almost everlasting Hamilton-Brown shoes, sold at Carney's Shoe Store. It reminds us of bygone days when Mr. Carney was the real live shoe merchant of Greene and used more newspaper space in the columns of the local papers in one month than we now have in a whole year, so far as shoe advertising is concerned—and Carney did the business at that time too. He was a firm and consistent believer in newspaper advertising. We only wish that the town was filled up with men of his business ability.—Butler Co. Press, Greene, Iowa.

Mme. Amet's Concert

The concert given in Filger's Opera House Wednesday evening by Mme. Bertha Amet and her assisting artists was of a very high order. All who attended were more than pleased. The bright particular star of the aggregation was Mme. Amet herself, whose voice is very sympathetic and has a surprising range and compass.

GLENDALE, CAL., FEBRUARY 24, 1911

The NEWS continues to be the only newspaper published and printed in Glendale.

A little sunshine does not make a summer. Do not be in a hurry to plant your garden stuff while the north wind blows.

Under the reapportionment plan which will probably be adopted by Congress, California gains three members in the House of Representatives.

What a good old world this would be if the members of all the "beneficial" and brotherly organizations should really live up to their obligations!

The Hollywood Citizen comes to us after its absorption of the Sentinel, under the control of Mr. W. E. Brown. We wish our contemporary success. We shall miss both of our old contemporaries, particularly the scholarly and generally able editorials of Brother Clark.

About the time that one's sympathy for the insurgents in Mexico is at fever point, it is cooled down by reading the latest details of that opera bouffe 'army" of hobos at Mexicali under Berthold, who destroy property, rob and murder, under the plea of "patriotism."

Vice-President Sherman has demonstrated that he is not entirely a figurehead as presiding officer of the Senate, by breaking precedent and casting the votes necessary to break the tie on the ship subsidy question. Probably he is tired of his cognomen of "Sunny Jim"!

We have received the March number of the Sunset magazine, the leading article in which is entitled, "In the Orange country," by Walter V. Woehlke, and is descriptive of the leading industry of Southern California. The illustrations are in four colors and are splendid examples of the possibilities of the art. Other articles in the issue are in the same high class as to excellence.

The new treaty with Japan which the president placed before the senate for ratification last Tuesday, places no restriction upon Japanese immigration. As the Japanese government for some time past has voluntarily restricted such immigration and as the right of this country to pass a complete exclusion act at any time is in no way abridged, there is no just cause for any great agitation over the matter, nor any good reason apparent why it should not be approved.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sherer entertained at dinner Saturday evening last a small party of old friends who gathered at their home on Verdugo road to celebrate the recovery of the host who is convalescing from the effects of a severe accident last December. The table center decoration was a combination of miniature American and British flags. A conspicuous feature of the dinner was an immense plum pudding, the creation of one of the guests whose skill in that line is a heritage from long line of British forebears. Another guest, a June bride, contributed specimens of pastry which proved her ready adaptability to the duties of housewife. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Whitaker, Miss Ina Whitaker, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Whitaker of Glendale and Mrs. Ringwood of San Francisco, a house guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Whitaker.

SENATOR WORKS AND THE RECALL.

Senator-elect John D. Works, having written a letter in which he opposes making the judiciary the football of politics, has incurred the displeasure of many of his erstwhile supporters, the experimenting statesmen at Sacramento. All of which raises Senator Works in our estimation, and indicates that he possesses at least some of the qualities of a statesman and has a commendable spirit of independence. And we are further indebted to him for injecting into the monotony of the daily routine of reform legislation as per steam roller a little of the leven of asperity which seems to have been aroused among the ranks of the faithful at the state capital.

EXTENSION OF THE GAS SYSTEM.

The people of Glendale and Tropico have cause to congratulate themselves upon the decision of the managers of the gas company to extend their systems in this vicinity. Everybody welcomed the gas company when it extended its pipes to this section about a year ago, but it was matter for regret that the distributing system was so limited in extent. It is to be hoped that the pipes will be extended to other parts of Glendale than those specified in the published announcement of the company's intention. There is a large territory east of Adams street which it seems the company does not propose to supply at present, but as there are several subdivisions being put on the market in this part of town just now, the probability is that it will not be long until the numerous inhabitants of that territory will be supplied with this almost necessary commodity.

SENATOR WORKS AGAIN.

And now Senator John D. Works has expressed himself as favoring the Canadian reciprocity treaty. This in addition to his independent stand in opposition to the recall of the judiciary will add to his list of supporters a large number of people who have been hoping for a long time almost against hope that some time California might be represented in the congress of the United States by a man whose opinions were not always prepared for him beforehand by chambers of commerce and boards of trade.

We certainly accord to these commercial organizations full credit for excellent work, but their outlook is rarely if ever from a national standpoint and is circumscribed by their local environment, while a member of the United States senate should be able to rise about sectionalism and at least occasionally allow the interests of all the states to be paramount in controlling his public acts. We begin to have hopes for Senator Works.

GET TOGETHER.

These seems a possibility now of the people on the two sides of Glendale getting together in regard to the vexing question which has caused much unnecessary friction for the past few months in regard to the location of a city hall and library. That this may be the result, all good citizens must agree is a "consummation devoutly to be wished."

The amount proposed to be raised, $18,000, is a comparatively insignificant sum for a municipality assessed at a million and a half, with a present bonded indebtedness of only $65,000. There are many citizens who would prefer to defer the settlement of this important question until some future time and then erect a city hall that would be creditable to the Glendale of the future; but under the circumstances and for the sake of harmony they can afford to support a bond issue for the small amount asked, as the realty which it is proposed to purchase will not lose value.

OUR SPECIAL.

A number of our contemporaries have made handsome references to our Midwinter Special, all of which are appreciated. The San Fernando Press says:

The editor of the GLENDALE NEWS is deserving of much praise for the beautiful Midwinter Special which was issued last week. The many fine illustrations of the business and residence sections of that thriving town speaks volumes for the enterprise and progressive spirit that dominates the town. The descriptive matter is well prepared, the press work is faultless and every resident should assist in giving the edition a wide circulation throughout the East.

The Artesia News has the following and copies our poem "The Land of Home," with complimentary preface:

"The GLENDALE NEWS issued a swell edition last week. It was simply perfect from both a literary and mechanical standpoint."

The Jewel City Press and Norwalk Call have kindly notices.

TWO SIDES AND THE NAME IS MUD.

We quote elsewhere some appreciative notices of our Special issue. The criticisms at home, however, are not all complimentary, but some of them serve to point a moral. For instance, a wild-eyed partisan of a contemporary thinks it worth while to tell some of our patrons on the west side that the NEWS Special treats them badly in not giving West Glendale more voluminous attention. And almost simultaneously a resident of the "East Side" complains that we gave that side no attention at all! Some day when we get a real "reform" administration with power to act, it will be a capital offense for any citizen of Glendale to intimate that there are any but two sides to our city—the inside and the outside!

* * *

Long fellow in Hiawatha or some later poet in something else, has something applicable to the above:

Oh you envious east-sider,
Or west-sider, as the case may be,
When you see the west side passing
Or the east side as may happen,
From your place upon the high fence
On the fence of your own building
Do not look with scorn all squint eyed,
With your eyes all green and glaring,
On the other fellow passing—
Squelch him not with too much hate—
For he too of clay is moulded
Just as you are, no more brittle,
And when falls the rain upon you,
Soaking through the thin veneering
You will find he is your brother,
And the family name is Mud.

A LIVING ISSUE.

Probably a majority of even the most intelligent of our people are unaware of the fact that two or more of the amendments to the constitution of the United States are not enforced, and never have been, but such is the case. One of these is the fourteenth amendment, the first section of which reads as follows: "All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United tSates and of the states wherein they reside. No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty or property, without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

In section two the penalty which the state shall incur is very clearly stated.

"Representatives shall be apportioned among the several states, according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each state, excluding Indians not taxed. But when the right to vote at any election for choice of electors for President and Vice-President of the United States, representatives in Congress, the executive and judicial officers of a state, or the members of the legislature thereof, is denied to any of the male inhabitants of such state being twenty-one years of age, and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged, except for participation in rebellion or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty-one years of age in such state."

The thirteenth amendment prohibits slavery in any form, and has practical and present application to the system of "peonage" authorized by the laws of a few Southern states. The fifteenth amendment attempts to guarantee to all male citizens (with usual exceptions as to criminals and Indians untaxed) the right of suffrage. All of these amendments were adopted immediately after the Civil War, with the intention of making the negro secure in his voting privileges. There is no single provision in our constitution that more nearly approaches absolute justice than the fourteenth amendment. The fact was no doubt in the minds of its framers that it would be difficult or impossible in a peaceful manner to enforce it, but in the spirit of justice he penalty was fixed at the proportionate loss of representation in the national Congress. There has probably been no time since the amendments were adopted that the negro has not in one or more Southern states been deprived of his right to vote, at first by methods of intimidation, and in recent years by the equally effectual process of state laws at variance with the national constitution. But the penalty of reducing the representation of such offending states has never been enforced; their full population, regardless of color, has been enumerated in taking the census, and used as a basis for the apportionment of representatives in Congress. Occasionally the matter is referred to in congressional debates, as it was the other day by Senator Root, who spoke very candidly on the subject, but representatives of the Northern states, actuated by a desire for peace, have winked at the injustice, not only to the negro of the South, but to the people of the North, who suffer through inadequate representation in Congress as compared to the South.

It is certainly a serious matter that the constitutional law of the land should be disregarded for so many years, and yet it is equally apparent that the remedy for it is difficult of application on account of the resentment which the people of the South would undoubtedly feel if the attempt was made to interfere with the present status. In connection with this matter, the contrast in the feeling of the people on the two sides of Mason and Dixon's line, between the present and a generation ago, when the war was a very recent memory, is striking. At that time the people of the North were insistent, with considerable evidence of bitterness, that every jot and tittle of the law should be enforced. Today they recognize the fact that the people of the South have an ever present and most serious problem confronting them in the negro question, and are disposed to allow them a free hand in working out its solution. Every now and then, however, the injustice of present conditions appeals to people in the North as something which must some time be remedied, and every day that Congress is in session there is the possibility that this vital matter will thrust itself upon the people as the living issue that it is.

A PUBLIC LIBRARY AS SEEN BY OTHERS.

We find the following in the Azusa Pomotropic, and as the subject of a public library is a live one in Glendale, we republish it:

"There is no doubt that where there is a free circulating library there is an intelligent community. Every town, whether it has 400 or 10,000 population, should furnish some sort of center where the inhabitants can procure an insight into the labors of the mighty and know what is going on in the world to increase knowledge.

"The great majority of cities of 25,000 inhabitants and upward in the United States have a public library of some sort, and the same is true of many of the smaller cities and towns.

"Many of the libraries already established have been founded on gifts of individuals, some have developed from subscription libraries, but the majority are now supported mainly or entirely by funds appropriated by the city government. A considerable number are still in the formative stage, this being true of those for which buildings are being erected from funds provided by Mr. Carnegie and of several others for which he will probably provide buildings.

"The conditions upon which he provides funds for the erection of municipal library buildings are simple. The city must provide a site, which it may obtain by gift if it can, and it must agree to provide annually for the maintenance of the library a sum equal to at least 10 per cent of the cost of the building. Practically, this offer is open to any city or town which has no public library building.

"Some good citizens think that the city should provide its own building, and not ask for it as a gift.

"The people who have no taxable property, and who therefore often erroneously suppose that they contribute nothing toward the payment of the taxes, are usually quite willing to have a higher tax rate imposed for the purpose of securing for themselves and their families free library facilities, although in exceptional cases religious or sociological opinions may lead them to oppose it.

"A considerable number of taxpayers are more or less reluctant to have their assessments increased for this purpose. They say:

"First—That they should not be taxed for things they do not want and never use.

"Second—That the furnishing free books tends to pauperize the community and to discourage the purchase of books for home use.

"Third—That there is no evidence that free public libraries improve the community materially or morally.

"Fourth—That the greater part of the books used are works of fiction and that these are injurious to the readers.

"Fifth—That most of the arguments used in favor of free public libraries are merely sentimental and emotional and that those who urge them most strongly do so for advertising and political reasons or to make a place for themselves or some of their relatives.

"While it is difficult to trace either specific instances of material or moral improvement, it is certain that the general diffusion of intelligence which both certainly effect does result beneficially in these directions. Communities with flourishing free schools and libraries are usually more prosperous and better than those without such facilities, and while there is doubtless room here for a confusion of cause and effect, it is probable that there is both action and reaction. Prosperity calls for increased facilities for education, and these in turn tend to make the community more prosperous."

The Race With the Ram.

In Morocco the strange season of the Mohammedan new year, beginning March 9, is generally called "Ait-el-Hanwela," the rain feast. The people of Morocco pay more elaborate attention to the item of sacrifice than any other Moslems. In every town a supreme offering of a ram or he goat takes place at the door of the principal mosque. Immediately after it is struck by the official imam in presence of the multitude it is flung on the shoulders of a stalwart Moor, who, exerting his utmost strength, runs like a deer through the narrow streets, pursued by a rabble. The poor animal is pelted with stones by boys and is jeered at with execrations from every house, as it is reputed to be carrying the sins of the people. The man rushes along with his burden till he reaches the door of the cadi's palace. If the animal is still breathing the augury is excellent, for good luck is to be expected all through the year. But if the ram is dead all sorts of evil prognostications are muttered.

The One Dish Diet.

A food specialist said of dieting:

"The simplest, easiest and most efficacious diet to bring down the weight is the one dish diet. At no meal, that is, should more than one dish be eaten.

"The dish may be what you will—Irish stew, macaroni and cheese, roast beef, vegetable soup, bacon and eggs—but no courses are to precede or follow it. You may eat as much as you choose of the dish, and yet for all that you will lose weight steadily.

"It's the variety of dishes—the oysters, soup, fish, turkey, mince pie, ice cream—it's the variety of dishes, creating an artificial appetite when the body has really had all it requires, that causes corpulence. If we confine ourselves to one dish we know when we've had enough—we don't know otherwise—and the result is that we soon drop down to the slimness natural to children, animals and temperate and healthy men and women."

He Started the Trouble.

Mrs. Johnson had begun to learn French and was gleefully informing her husband of the rapid progress she was making in her studies.

"I'm afraid," remarked Johnson, "that you'll soon grow tired. I've known people tackle a foreign tongue, expecting to know all about it in a few weeks, but before they have mastered even the rudiments their enthusiasm has evaporated and they have given up the task as hopeless."

"Oh, that's not the case with me," declared Mrs. Johnson confidently. "I am getting on splendidly, and Professor Dubois says I shall soon begin to think in French."

"Well," the husband murmured, "I won't interpose any further objection, and I shall be glad when you are able to think in French. It will be something you have been unable to do in any other language!"

Twain's Most Quoted Witticism.

Of all the witty things said or written by Mark Twain no phrase has been quoted oftener than his reply to an alarmist report, "Rumor of my death greatly exaggerated." I think the history of this bonmot, says a correspondent, may interest. Mark Twain was on a visit to London some years ago and had been secured as the chief guest of a dinner to be given by a literary club. On the morning of the day when the dinner was to take place the secretary was shocked to hear a rumor that Mark Twain had died suddenly. At his wits' end, he sought to verify it by a diplomatic note to Mrs. Clemens, in which he mentioned the rumor. Mark Twain got hold of the note and telegraphed the now famous reply, "Rumor of my death greatly exaggerated."

The Fleur-de-lis.

The fleur-de-lis, the well known emblem of France, is said to have been brought from heaven by an angel to King Clovis, he having made a vow that if he proved victorious in an impending battle with the Alemanni near Cologne he would embrace Christianity. It was the national emblem until the revolution of 1789, when the tricolor (white, red and blue) was adopted. The royalists in 1871 tried to restore the old emblem to the flag, but without success.—New York American.

Spider Racing.

Lord Devon's property was greatly impoverished by the twelfth earl, who squandered nearly all his fortune and terribly embarrassed the entailed property. He was addicted to a most peculiar form of gambling, namely, spider racing, which he played with the last Marquis of Hastings and the eighth Duke of Bedford. Each player selected a spider, which was placed on the table, and then the latter was gently heated from underneath. The warmth caused the insects to run, and the spider which got to the edge first won. But spiders are curious creatures, and it would frequently happen that a spider which was near the edge and looked like winning would double back, traverse the table in all directions and lose its backer the thousands of pounds so nearly won. Lord Devon, Lord Hastings and the Duke of Bedford each of them squandered enormous sums on this game, which contributed in no small degree to the ruin of the two former.—New York Tribune.

Inn Names in Germany.

Germany probably holds the record for out of the way signs and fantastic inn names. The most absurd results are usually obtained by the name of some animal with a more or less unsuitable object. The Comfortable Chicken and the Cold Frog, both of them in Berlin, are certainly left in the shade by the Angry Ant (Ort, in Westphalia) and the Stiff Dog (Berlin). The Lame Louse is an inn in a suburb of Berlin, and not far from it is the Thirsty Pelican. The Dirty Parlor, the Bloody Bones, the Musical Cats, the Fourhundredweight Man, and the Boxers' Den are all in Berlin or the neighborhood, and the Old Straw Bag in Leipsig. The Open Banghole is in Stadtohen, in the Palatinate, and the Shoulder Blade in Jerichow. The Last Tear is a landlord's notion for the name of his inn, situated near a graveyard, visited by returning mourners, and is of frequent occurrence throughout the fatherland.

A Strange Colony.

The Colonia Cosme, on the Paraguay above Asuncion, is one of the most curious in the world. The members of the colony make or grow everything they want and import nothing. The workmen have seven hours' work a day and earn, not money, but time. Their wages are hours and half hours. These they sometimes save up till they have a week in hand and then go off on an excursion. If a man wants a chair or table he pays for it in hours of work, which are deducted from the balance to his credit. Three men went off up the river in a canoe for a three weeks' holiday. They sold their canoe at Asuncion for a pound and came home overland in ten days, lodged in the best houses in the villages on the way and yet had some money in hand at the end.—London Spectator.

Dogs in Ecclesiastical Decorations.

The stained glass representation of the "Peddler and His Dog" was removed from Lambeth church a quarter of a century ago owing to the alleged incongruity of introducing the figure of a dog in a church window. Quite recently Chancellor Prescott of Carlisle refused a faculty for a stained glass window in a Westmorland church because the design included a dog, and perhaps the only existing examples of dogs used for ecclesiastical decorations are to be found in Lord Brownlow's private chapel at Ashbridge. In this church one stained glass window depicts Tobias and Sara in bed and a dog sleeping on the quilt, while in another window Job is shown being mocked by three men, one of whom is holding a dog by a chain.—Westminster Gazette.

The Giant's Staircase.

One of the most widely known geological curiosities in the vicinity of Cork is a series of knobs or knots projecting from the face of a cliff. There are sixteen of these huge projections all together, all regularly set in the face of the cliff, one above the other, forming a series of such uniformity as to give it the general appearance of a stairway. Since time out of memory this queer ascent and its projecting "steps" have been known as the Giant's Staircase.

How He Won.

A rich old man was asked how he made his money. "Simplest thing in the world," he said. "I always did the reverse of what everybody else was doing. If everybody bought, I sold—prices were high. If everybody sold, I bought—prices were low."

The Last Dance.

She—Certainly, the last one on the list.

He—But I'll not be here then.

She—Neither will I.

Quered His Grandfather.

Peter Augustus had a foolish, fond old grandfather. The grandfather was boasting to a visitor one day, as grandfathers will, about the family he had raised.

"My daughter Martha is a fine young woman," he said, "and her little boy, Peter Augustus, is a fine lad. But the finest thing about that pair is the affection that exists between them. They never exchange a cross word. They're more like two young lovers than mother and son. It's beautiful to see them together. Hold on a minute, and I'll call Peter Augustus in. Then his mother will come down, and you can see their relations for yourself."

The old man rose and ambled heavily to the door. There was a beatific smile on his old face. Little Peter Augustus was playing with the cat in the garden.

"Peter Augustus!" he shouted. "Peter Augustus! Your mother wants you!"

The little boy dropped the cat and fixed a searching glance on his grandfather.

"Your mother wants you, Peter Augustus!"

"Does she want to warm me?" Peter Augustus cautiously demanded.

Really Worth While.

Eben Pratt of Marshby had sent two sons to Boston and knew he had reason to be proud of them. One day a summer visitor lingering in Mr. Pratt's grocery, provision and dry goods establishment mentioned some of the shining lights who had made themselves remembered in and near Boston and others still to be found there.

"We've had a good many smart men and women in and around our city," said the visitor, "and there are a number of them left. We've got scientific men and writers and artists and musicians and"—

Mr. Pratt's dry voice broke in on the ist. "If ye call those folks smart," he said, "ye want to go down near the water to an address I'll give ye and see the way my boys, Ed and Sam, can open oysters! I guess that'll give ye something to go by when ye're talking of smartness."—Exchange.

Willing to Be Honest.

Phil May, the great English artist, earned his first fame in Australia. One day a broken down minister applied to him for charity, and May engaged him as a model. As a joke he also demanded that his eighty-year-old pensioner agree to leave him his skeleton when he died. When May left Australia he called his model in. "You've played me a dirty trick," said May, "by swindling me out of that skeleton. I could have bought one in sound order and condition for half the money you've cost me." The old fellow, conscious of his base ingratitude to his best and most patient friend, answered: "Don't be angry with me, Mr. May. It's not my fault. I meant to keep my word. Stay in Sydney a few months longer and give me another chance to show you that I am a man of honor."

Redhot Plays.

"It is a tremendous undertaking to get a new play accepted and produced," once said the late Clyde Fitch to a friend. "So many are written, and so few ever see the light of day. An English playwright with a gift of humorous exaggeration illustrated this fact to me once. He told me how he submitted a play to a celebrated actor and how in the course of the conversation the actor remarked:

"'Don't you think it is growing chilly in this room?'

"'Yes; it is rather,' the young playwright admitted.

"Then the actor rang a bell, and a servant forthwith appeared.

"'James,' said the actor, 'this room is rather cold. You may put three more manuscripts on the fire.'"—Lippincott's.

A Competent Critic.

A famous actor at an elaborate entertainment at a Fifth avenue millionaire's palace in New York rose to recite Mrs. Browning's "Dead Pan." As he announced his subject and prepared to begin he heard a lady near him say distinctly:

"What is the next piece? Something funny, I hope. Oh, yes—The Dead Pan!' Dear me, how odd! Of course it must be funny—something about bad cooking, I suppose."

Playing Her Cards.

Tommy—May I stay up a little longer? Ethel—What do you want to stay up for? Tommy—I want to see you and Mr. Green playing cards. Mr. Green—But we are not going to play cards. Tommy—Oh, yes, you are, for I heard mamma saying to Ethel that everything depended on the way in which she played her cards tonight.

Cautious.

The young housekeeper was looking at some soft shell crabs squirming and wriggling in their bed of seaweed.

"They're very nice," said the dealer. "Shall I send you a dozen?"

"Yes," answered the innocent, "if you are sure they are fresh."—New York Journal.

GLENDALE, CAL., FEBRUARY 24, 1911

An Epic of the Backwoods.

One of the epics of the backwoods, told by John G. Neihardt in "The River and I," is the adventure of old Hugh Glass, who was terribly mauled by a grizzly up the Missouri, so terribly that the rest of the expedition pushed on, leaving a young friend with several others to see the end. "It seemed plain that he would have to go soon. So the young friend and the others left the old man in the wilderness to finish the job by himself. They took his weapons and hastened after the main party, for the country was hostile.

"But one day old Glass woke up and got one of his eyes open. And when he saw how things stood he swore he would live merely for the sake of killing his false friend. He crawled to a spring close by, where he found a bush of ripe bullberries. He waited day after day for strength and finally started out to crawl a small matter of a hundred miles to the nearest fort. And he did it too! Also he found his friend after much wandering—and forgave him."

Always Feminine.

A young chap was walking along a business street with a very pretty girl when he happened to glance into a couple of windows where the latest styles of men's overcoats and suits were displayed. The girl noticed it. She stopped and exclaimed: "What a dandy overcoat! Why don't you get one of those, Bob? You'll look fine inside of that."

She looked at everything in that window, and the young chap was delighted at her interest in men's clothes.

"You're all right, Grace," said he. "That's what I like about you. Most girls would rather look at lingerie waists than at a man's overcoat and suits."

The girl laughed. "Well, Bob," said she, "to be perfectly honest, the mirrors in that window are something to cry for. I was trying to see if my hat was on straight!"

The Merits of "Angelick Snuff."

Angelick snuff, the most noble composition in the world, removing all manner of disorders of the head and brain, easing the most excruciating pain in a moment, taking away all swimming and giddiness proceeding from vapours, etc.; also drowsiness, sleepiness and other lethargick effects, perfectly curing deafness to admiration and all humours and soreness in the eyes, etc. Corroborates the brain, comforts the nerves and revives the spirits. Its admirable efficacy in all the above mentioned diseases has been experienced above a thousand times and very justly causes it to be esteemed the most beneficial snuff in the world. Price 1s. a paper, with directions. Sold only at Mr. Payn's toy shop at the Angel and Crown, in St. Paul's churchyard, near Cheapside.—Advertisement in London Paper, Aug. 6, 1711.

Brignoli in a Temper.

On one occasion Bianchi, the noted teacher, went on the stage to see Brignoli, the famous singer, whom he found pacing up and down like a mad man, humming over his part.

"Why, Brig, what is the matter with you? Are you nervous?" he asked.

"Yes, I am nervous," was the reply as he walked harder and faster than ever.

"But, Brig, you ought not to be nervous. I've heard you sing the part 200 times. I heard you sing it thirty years ago."

"Thirty years ago! Who are you that should know so much?"

"Who am I? You know who I am, and I know who you are."

"Very well; you know what I am, but I am sure you do not know what you are, and if you wish I will tell you. You are a fool!"

Hazing Him.

"Mr. Chairman," said the new member of the literary club, "I move you, sir"—

"I rise to a point of order, Mr. Chairman," interrupted one of the other members.

"State your point of order."

"The gentleman says 'I move you.' It is not only out of order but utterly absurd for a man of 114 pounds to talk of 'moving' a chairman who weighs 300."

"The point is well taken!" roared the presiding officer, bringing his gavel down with a resounding thud. "The gentleman will merely 'move' or take his seat!"—Chicago Tribune.

A Cent.

A cent is a little thing, but in the aggregate it is mighty. We speak of the "copper cent," but it is not entirely copper. Its composition is 95 per cent copper, 3 per cent tin and 2 per cent zinc. That alloy is in reality bronze, and the official name of the cent is "bronze." There used to be a copper cent, but an act discontinuing its coinage was passed in 1857. For seven years (1857-64) we had a nickel cent and up to 1857 a copper half cent.

Spoiling His Advantage.

Robert Lowe, the English journalist, was always saying good things. "Look at that fool throwing away his natural advantages!" he exclaimed when a deaf member of the house of commons put up his ear trumpet.

His Mile.

Mr. Baggie—Confound that tailor! These trousers are a mile too long. Mrs. Baggie—How much shall I turn them up? Mr. Baggie—About half an inch.

Queer Church Ornamentation.

The chancellor of the diocese who refused to sanction the design for a memorial window in a Carlisle church on the ground that an angel is depicted wearing the coat of arms of the dean and chapter of Carlisle would assuredly make short work of the Lincoln cathedral "imp," which finds a place among the angels forming the angel choir in that building. Up and down England are to be found hundreds of examples of the humor of ecclesiastical architects of a past age, from the snarling griffins worked into the stonework of Henry VII.'s chapel, Westminster abbey, to the dun cow and milkmaids in Durham cathedral. A cat playing a violin can be seen in Wells cathedral, and in Hereford cathedral two cats, apparently performing a violin duet. Boston "Stump" is crowded with fantastic carvings, among which may be mentioned a wife chastising her husband, a teacher caning a pupil and an orchestra composed of bears playing an organ, a bagpipe and a drum.—Westminster Gazette.

Bread and Dyspepsia.

The conclusion that wheat bread is unfit for dyspeptics, sometimes jumped at because ill effects are noticed to follow its use, is erroneous. On the contrary, it has been pointed out by Bouchard and others that farinaceous food is peculiarly adapted to some dyspeptic patients. It is the microbes in the starch which are capable of producing irritating acids that cause the trouble. To avoid this Bouchard recommends that only the crust or toasted crumbs of the bread be used by dyspeptics, particularly those whose stomachs are dilated. The reason of this is explained by the fact that baking temporarily, though not permanently, arrests the fermentation of dough. When it is again heated by the warmth of the stomach the fermentation is renewed. In cases where the bread is toasted brown through the fermentation is stopped permanently.—Family Doctor.

She Wanted Both.

The matinee performance was about half over when a distracted looking woman with a curly haired youngster of six sought out the man in the box office.

"There are boxes on your chairs in there," she began, "and they say drop a nickel in and get a box of candy."

"Yes, I see," asserted the man in the box office.

"Well," she continued indignantly, "I dropped a nickel in for my little girl."

"And couldn't you get the candy?" queried the box office man. "Wait; I'll see if we can get it out."

"Oh, yes," answered the woman; "I got the candy all right, but I couldn't get the nickel out."

And to the ticket man at least this remark furnished a more dramatic moment than any in the play.—Louisville Times.

Dean Swift and the Cook.

"Moderation in all things" is the best precept for everyday life. There is a good story about Dean Swift apropos of the value of never overdoing anything.

The dean's cook one day overroasted the leg of mutton for dinner, and in consequence she was summoned to the dining room. "Cook," said the dean in a pleasant voice, "this leg of mutton is overdone; take it back and do it less."

"Impossible, your reverence!" exclaimed the cook.

"Well," replied her master, "supposing it had been underdone, you could easily have done it more."

"Certainly, your reverence."

"Then," said the dean, "let this be a lesson to you. If you commit a fault always take care that it is a fault which will admit of a remedy."

The Duration of a Dream.

One evening Victor Hugo was dictating letters to his secretary. Overcome by fatigue, the great man dropped into a slumber. A few moments afterward he awoke, haunted by a dream which, as he thought, had extended over several hours, and he blamed his secretary for sitting there waiting for him instead of wakening him or else going away. What was his surprise when the bewildered secretary told him that he had only just finished writing the last sentence dictated to him.

Goodness.

Whatever mitigates the woes or increases the happiness of others is a just criterion of goodness, and whatever injures society at large or any individual in it is a criterion of iniquity. One should not quarrel with a dog without a reason sufficient to vindicate one through all the courts of morality.—Goldsmith.

Good Proof.

"Guess I must have been born unlucky."

"What makes you say that?"

"Well, for instance, I went to a ball game once. There were eighteen players on the diamond, fifteen or twenty on the benches, 10,000 people in the grand stand, 20,000 on the bleachers, and—the ball hit me!"—Toledo Blade.

A Proof.

"That girl is trying to make a fool of me."

"Oh, no! She never tries anything ready made."—Baltimore American.

A Woman's Mind.

Sillicus—A woman never seems able to make up her mind. Cynicus—Why should she? She would only change it again.—Philadelphia Record.

Who bravely dares must sometimes risk a fall.—Smollett.

Anne Boleyn and the Lemon.

Who ever thinks of connecting such a commonplace article of diet as the lemon with the romantic history of ill fated Anne Boleyn? Yet indirectly she was the cause of its first introduction into England and so into popular notice. Henry VIII. gave such splendid feasts and pageants in honor of the coronation of Anne and of their previous nuptials as had seldom been accorded to queens of the blood royal. These kingly entertainments were in turn followed by the great civic feasts of London, for which the whole world was searched for delicacies to add to the splendor. At one such banquet, graced by the presence of the royal pair, a lemon was introduced as an elegant novelty. To an epicure such as Henry the acquisition of a castle in France would have proved less acceptable, and such was the importance attached to the discovery—so says an old biographer—that a special record was made of the fact that the cost of this precious lemon was six silver pennies!

An Architectural Curiosity.

There are many churches throughout England which are without tower or spire, but there are few churches which can boast of having a tower and spire side by side. One of these is the parish church of Ormskirk, in Lancashire. The tower is built over the porch at the west end, and the spire is placed as closely as possible to it. The origin of this architectural freak has not been ascertained, but there is a tradition to the effect that when Ormé, the Saxon pirate from whom the town derives its name, decided to construct a kirk, or church, as an expiatory offering for his evil deeds his two daughters quarreled over the design for the structure. One determined to have a tower; the other was equally resolved to have a steeple. As neither of them would give way the pirate chief acceded to both their wishes, and the curious may see the tower and spire still keeping watch side by side on the surrounding country.

She Played the Green.

The attache of a European embassy was very much attracted by a western girl of great beauty and still greater wealth at a summer resort, and in order to interest her deeply he fell into the habit of discoursing at length on his family tree and telling her that ancestry was of great value to a man.

The girl from the west had been brought up in a section of the country where every man was accepted for what he was and not because of what his ancestors had been or done. She began to be bored by the attache's lectures on pedigree.

"Blue blood," he remarked one day, "is something not everybody can boast of."

"Oh, yes," she agreed indifferently, "but what's the use of blue blood if you haven't got the long green?"—Popular Magazine.

Contempt For the House of Commons.

There is nothing noble or exalted in the history of the house of commons. Indeed, a devil's advocate had he the requisite talent could easily deliver an oration as long and as eloquent as any of Burke's or Sheridan's, taking as his subject the stupidity, cowardice and, until recent times, the corruption of the house of commons. I confess I cannot call to mind a single occasion in its long and remarkable history when the house of commons, as a whole, played a part either obviously heroic or conspicuously wise, but we all of us can recall hundreds of occasions when heroism and wisdom being greatly needed, the house of commons exhibited either selfish indifference, crass ignorance or the vulgarest passion.—Augustine Birrell's "Essays and Addresses."

The Swedish Almanac.

The Swedish name almanac differs from English almanacs in giving, besides the usual information, a Christian name for each sex for every day of the year. The names set forth have to receive the approval of the king. The object aimed at is to secure a greater choice of names for parents and to avoid the endless repetition of a dozen or so names. A similar name almanac is issued under royal authority in one of the German states.—London Graphic.

Sounded Bigger.

"How did you get that new clerk? He wouldn't accept an offer from me."

"Probably I offered him larger inducements."

"I told him his wages would be $10 a week."

"That's it, then. I told him his salary would be $40 a month."—Cleveland Leader.

Moral Courage.

As to moral courage, I have very rarely met with the 2 o'clock in the morning courage. I mean unprepared courage, that which is necessary on an unexpected occasion, and which, in spite of the most unforeseen events, leaves full freedom of judgment and decision. —Napoleon.

Beginning Early.

Caller (viewing new baby)—Do you think he is going to resemble his father? Mother—I shouldn't be surprised. He keeps me up nights even now.—Boston Transcript.

Ups and Downs.

"Oh, well, everybody has his ups and downs!"

"That's right. Just at present I'm down pretty low because I'm hard up."

The great soul of this world is just.—Carlyle.

Origin of Plum Duff.

This is the origin of plum duff, according to the captain of an Atlantic liner:

"One Christmas day, hundreds of years ago at sea, a ship in a storm was swept by a comber that carried off her cook, her crate of chickens, her turkeys—in a word, the whole raw material of her Christmas dinner.

"But the sailors were determined to have at least some sort of Christmas pudding. They knew nothing about cooking, and they drew lots for their new cook. The lot fell to the boatswain's mate.

"This chap fished up a cookbook from the bottom of his sea chest. He ran over the pudding recipes and chose one that began:

"'Make a stiff dough.'

"He made a pudding after this recipe. It was stuffed with Malaga raisins and covered with a rich sauce. The men were delighted.

"'Put a name to it,' they said. 'Put a name to it.'

"And the boatswain's mate, knowing that 'r-o-u-g-h' was pronounced 'rough' and thinking 'd-o-u-g-h' followed the same rule, answered readily:

"'It's called duff, mates.'"

Settled the Sacristan.

A matter of fact sacristan of the Cathedral of Berlin once wrote the king of Prussia this brief note:

Sire—I acquaint your majesty, first, that there are wanting books of psalms for the royal family. I acquaint your majesty, second, that there wants wood to warm the royal seats. I acquaint your majesty, third, that the balustrade next the river behind the church, is become ruinous.

SCHMIDT,
Sacrist of the Cathedral.

The reply of the king was not that of a "gracious majesty." Its stiff formality in imitating the style of the sacristan probably was not taken by the receiver as complimentary to him:

I acquaint you, Herr Sacrist Schmidt, first, that those who want to sing may buy books. Second, I acquaint Herr Sacrist Schmidt that those who want to be warm must buy wood. Third, I acquaint Herr Sacrist Schmidt that I shall not trust any longer to the balustrade next the river. And I acquaint Herr Sacrist Schmidt, fourth, that I will not have any more correspondence with him.

FREDERICK.

The Shillalah.

The shillalah is no raw limb of a tree. It is almost as much a work of art as a well balanced cricket bat. The old shillalahs were as carefully looked after by their loving owners as is a rifle in the wilds. Cut from the sturdiest of young blackthorns and showing as little taper as an ebony ruler, it was weighed with lead or iron at the end nearest the grip so that its center of gravity was about four-fifths of the way from the hitting end. When properly seasoned by being kept in the neighborhood of the farm oven for a few months it became a thing of supple steel. And the proper pronunciation of the name of this fear some weapon is the melodious one of "shillally," with the accent on the "all."—London Chronicle.

Her Queer Question.

The rector of a country parish in England having sent blankets, gorceries, coals and some of the good things usual at Christmas to an old parishioner a lady expatiated warmly to him on the reverend gentleman's kindness.

"Don't you think," she asked the old villager, "that it is very good of the rector to look after you like this and send you all these nice things?"

"Good of him!" exclaimed the old man in blank amazement. "Why, what's he for?"—Pearson's Weekly.

A Slap at Whistler.

A young San Franciscan, the owner of a large and valuable collection of autographs, once wrote to James McNeill Whistler, politely requesting his signature. The letter was sent in care of the London Royal academy, with which the famous American painter was at outs. After four months the letter was returned to the San Francisco address from the dead letter office in Washington. Covering the envelope was the word, repeated numberless times, "Unknown."

Boston Could Stand It.

Ralph Waldo Emerson once made a crushing reply to a man who asked him whether the people in Boston did not feel alarmed. Said Emerson. "What about?" Said the man. "Why, the world is coming to an end next Monday." Emerson replied: "I'm glad of it. We can get along a great deal better without it."

Pleasant.

The Host's Youngest—Don't your shoes feel very uncomfortable when you walk, Mrs. Nuryche? Mrs. Nuryche—Dear me! What an extraordinary question! Why do you ask, child? The Host's Youngest—Oh, only cos pa said the other day since you'd come into your money you'd got far too big for your boots.

Good Reason.

"I wouldn't be in Brown's shoes just now."

"Why not?"

"He left them in the cellar, and they dumped four tons of coal on them before Brown was up."

A Long Swallow.

"And you give the giraffe only one lump of sugar?" asked the little boy at the zoo.

"Oh, yes!" replied the keeper. "One lump goes a long way with him."—Yonkers Statesman.

Left When She Learned.

"I have been spending the week training a waitress."

"What for?"

"For the family she is now working for."—Life.

ONE BETTER THAN TWO.

Over in Hollywood, two papers have struggled along for several years under the delusion that there was a living for more than one in the business. At last both publishers got tired and sold out to a man from Michigan, who has merged them intozone. At Inglewood, a town more nearly the size of Sierra Madre, two papers went through the same sort of a struggle. One of them changed hands about five times in the course of two years. Finally the supply of "suckers" seemed to run out, and no buyer could be found. So the plant was hauled back to Los Angeles to help repay some of the money which had been sunk in the enterprise, leaving the other paper alone in the field. The two papers in Cucamonga have been consolidated recently, after a demonstration of the fact that there was only room for one. Over in Ontario, the business men have been wise enough to support one good paper and discourage all efforts to start a new one. There is a town of nearly 5,000 and an inviting field. Only recently a man who started to solicit business for a new paper, it is said, was frankly told by the business men that they did not care to divide their patronage and thus maintain two mediocre papers instead of one good one. Wherein they showed their good judgment.—Sierra Madre News.

The Burglar's Prayer.

Sir Herbert Risley, speaking of the castes of eastern Bengal at a meeting of the Royal Anthropological Institute, said a curious system of religious worship prevailed among a caste who were professional burglars. They made a space in the ground, and a man then cut his arm and prayed to one of the earth gods that there might be a dark night and that he might succeed in obtaining great booty and escape capture.—London Standard.

No Whiskers on His Sea Food.

Two colored porters paused to rest a moment on their mops in a downtown office building recently. "Boy," said one, smacking his lips, "did you ever eat mushrat?" "Mushrat?" returned the other. "No; I never eat any mushrat. The only fancy sea food I ever fussed with was lobster."—New York World.

Puzzled.

Mother (at lunch)—Yes, darling, these little sardines are sometimes eaten by the larger fish. Mabel (aged five)—But, mamma, how do they get the cans open?—London Ideas.

The Truth.

"Truth is as clear as a bell," quoted the wise guy.

"Yes, but it isn't always tolled," added the simple mug.—Philadelphia Record.

Not Serious.

Mrs. C. E. Clay entertained a number of relatives and friends at an elaborate dinner Sunday at her home on Ivy street.

Mr. Charley Lawrence of Baker City, Oregon, was a guest at the home of his old-time friends, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Everett and family, 1509 Hawthorne street, the latter part of the week.

Mr. C. H. Allen, the enterprising hardware dealer on Brand boulevard, continues those special sales which he proposes to make a feature of for some time to come. His weekly advertisements tell the public what he has to offer.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Klein and little sons, Master Gerald and Robert, enjoyed a drive to Burbank on Sunday last, going by the way of Crescenta, Sunland, etc., but the return trip was made by the way of the old standby, San Fernando road.

Mrs. J. W. Everett and daughter, Miss Gladys, together with Mrs. Payne and daughter, Miss Frances, and friends from Los Angeles, celebrated Washington's birthday by taking in the Tilton trolley trip, and as the day was an ideal one, every mile of the delightful journey was greatly enjoyed.

Masters Kenneth and Ralph Taylor gave a party at their home in West First street in honor of their week end barn guests, Masters Clyde and Lee Smith. A coterie of friends gathered during the evening and passed many a happy hour with games, music and story telling. Not the least important item of the evening's entertainment was the refreshments served by the young hostess under the direction of their mother, Mrs. F. G. Taylor. Master Towser Smith came in for his share of the "eats."

On Thursday afternoon a number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mrs. S. A. Merriksen to greet Mrs. Katherine Gallagher who has been absent from her Glendale home since August last, being the greater part of the time in Oregon. The party was in the nature of a surprise, and a complete one at that. This estimable lady was met at the S. P. depot in Los Angeles by two of her neighbors, but on coming home her surprise was even greater when she found the following ladies waiting to welcome one whom they have greatly missed during the past months that she has been away. Mrs. S. A. Merriksen and sister, Mrs. Page, Mrs. C. E. Clay, Mrs. Ralph Wolfe, Sr., Mrs. R. W. Hammond, Mrs. Arthur McAdams, Mrs. W. T. Parker, Mrs. Charley Wolfe, Mrs. P. A. Penhollow, Mrs. A. J. PARENT-TEACHERS MEETING.

The regular meeting of the P. T. A. was held at the school on Thursday, Feb. 16. A very good attendance was shown despite the high wind that had been blowing throughout the day and the following excellent program was rendered: Vocal solo, Mrs. Hellyer; piano solo, Kathlene Dodge; three selections by the Seventh and Eighth grades; address by Capt. Wells.

Capt. Wells, who is so well known to all Glendale people, gave a stirring address on Patriotism, which interested his hearers both old and young. He also related many incidents concerning his meeting with Abraham Lincoln. A report of the committee on emergency work was also read during the afternoon and showed that the ladies had recently made over forty garments which will be turned over to the emergency department of the P. T. A. of Los Angeles.

A special meeting of the P. T. A. of West Glendale school was held at the building on Tuesday afternoon to discuss the bill that is forming and expects to be put before the legislature in Sacramento within the next two weeks. This bill—number not obtainable at present—deals with the state bureau of health and development in the public schools of California and which is considered by the greater majority of the people to be absolutely unnecessary, more of a political graft, than otherwise. At this meeting a unanimous vote against the bill was carried and a telegram announcing the same, together with a protest was sent immediately to Sacramento. It is sincerely hoped that this bill will never be passed. Every school, almost, is working against the same.

Theatre Party

A pleasant theater party consisting of the members of the Brownsberger alumni association which numbers about 30, was given at the Orpheum theater on Friday evening, under the auspices of the management of the Brownsberger. THE WEATHER AND SO FORTH.

The frosty nights of the early part of the week have been succeeded by days of delightful warmth and clearness and nights of higher temperature. Farming and gardening operations are being carried on at high pressure. The orange crop is moving slowly at prices which are hardly satisfactory to growers, but with prospects of improvement in the near uture.
